

Accomplish becoming an Authorised Economic Operator (AEO) in any country with automation

Integration Point Authorised Economic Operator (AEO) Certification is a piece of Integration Point Supply Chain Compliance that assists organizations with the self-assessment of their internal procedures along with those of their global supply chains. By automating the collection, standardization and organization of internal department and external supplier data, AEO Certification allows the user to efficiently collect information required for all types of AEO certifications, including Security and Simplification levels, in one single database.

AEO Certification

To become AEO certified, organizations will need to engage in a self-assessment as well as conduct an assessment of their global supply chains. This task, while daunting at first, can be managed easily with Integration Point AEO Certification.

A Software-as-a-Service (SaaS) technology, Integration Point AEO Certification provides:

- Enhanced communication channels to ensure security measures internally and externally are followed
- Immediate progress monitoring to assist with the analysis of supplier security profiles
- Targeted workflow technology that gives users the ability to electronically route requests for supplier data without the burden or cost of paperwork
- Adaptable profiles to include a combination of the provided base questions and company specific questions

Integration Point AEO Certification takes a very manual process and turns it into an easily manageable electronic process that eliminates paper while increasing compliance with government regulations and improving the security of the global supply chain.

Internal & External Automation

Organizations that participate in any AEO certification program using the Integration Point software experience the following benefits of automation:

- Eliminate the need for manual tracking of risk factors
- Verify that pre-determined security best practices are incorporated into existing business practices at all necessary locations
- Tailor reporting to easily view risk gaps analysis
- On-demand access to suppliers' data via a secure website
- Attach documentation to individual supplier records and retain for easy retrieval during the validation process
- Customize risk ratings based on organization's tolerance levels and security profiles

Multiple AEO Certifications

For organizations doing business globally, Integration Point AEO Certification assists with the qualification of multiple AEO certificates using a single database. Organizations can create a single questionnaire to send to all suppliers at one time, have suppliers only provide answers one time, and then retain that documentation for later use. This provides organizations with the ability to collect data and retain it until needed for any AEO Certification Program, even those not yet defined.
